Hello everyone. Welcome to "Cooking With Angela." Today, let's talk about some traditional holiday foods from around the world, and how to cook them.

First, let's talk about Christmas. There are three days of Christmas. First is Christmas Eve, December 24th. Santa Claus flies around the world and delivers presents to good children on Christmas Eve. Second is Christmas Day, December 25th. This is my favorite day of the year because I love opening presents. In the UK, people eat roast turkey on Christmas Day. Third, December 26th is Boxing Day. Sometimes people give presents to the poor on Boxing Day. I usually go to the sales on Boxing Day. The stores open at 10:00 and there are always very long lines.

Now, let's cook some roast turkey. First, remove the giblets. They are the innards of the turkey. Second, put the turkey in a large roasting tray and cover it with butter. Third, put some bacon across the back of the turkey. Fourth, put the turkey in the oven and roast it for three about hours. Fifth, eat! Enjoy it with some roast vegetables and gravy.

Second, let's talk about Korean New Year. New Year's Day is January 1st, but Korean New Year changes every year. It takes place during the second new moon of the new year. In 2012 it is January 23rd, but in 2013 it is February 10th. During Korean New Year, Korean people eat Tteokguk. It's a kind of soup.

Let's make it. First, boil the soup stock. Second, add some sliced rice cakes. Third, top with cooked egg and seaweed. Fourth, enjoy!

Third, let's talk about Thanksgiving. In America, Thanksgiving is the fourth Thursday in the eleventh month, November. American people spend time with their families at Thanksgiving. Everybody likes to eat turkey with cranberry sauce.

Let's cook it! First, wash the cranberries. Second, mix some sugar and water in a pan. Third, add the fresh cranberries. Fourth, boil the water. Fifth, when the cranberries pop, the sauce is ready. Sixth, serve the sauce over the roast turkey. Delicious!
